PUBLIC NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY OF PROPOSED TOTAL MAXIMUM DAILY LOAD (TMDL)
FOR E. COLI IN THE RED RIVER WATERSHED (HUC 051310206), TENNESSEE

Announcement is hereby given of the availability of Tennessee's proposed Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) for E. coli in the Red River watershed, located in middle Tennessee. Section 303(d) of the Clean Water Act requires states to develop TMDLs for waters on their impaired waters list. TMDLs must determine the allowable pollutant load that the water can assimilate, allocate that load among the various point and nonpoint sources, include a margin of safety, and address seasonality.

A number of waterbodies in the Red River watershed are listed on Tennessee's Final 2020 List of Impaired Waters as not supporting designated use classifications due, in part, to sanitary sewer overflows or municipal (urbanized high density area). The TMDL utilizes Tennessee's general water quality criteria, continuous flow data from a USGS discharge monitoring station located in proximity to the watershed, site specific water quality monitoring data, a calibrated hydrologic model, load duration curves, and an appropriate Margin of Safety (MOS) to establish allowable loadings of pathogens which will result in the reduced in-stream concentrations and attainment of water quality standards. The TMDL requires reductions of E. coli loading on the order of 4.0-82.7% in the listed waterbodies.

The Red River E. coli TMDL may be downloaded from the Department of Environment and Conservation website:
